

The Savo Invite meeting chair provides an inviting, intuitive seating experience

Savo Invite is an intuitive meeting chair that suits everyone. The seat follows the body's movements and provides support and relief in all postures, allowing the occupant to sit comfortably right away.

Savo Invite was developed to be ergonomic for the occupant's back, shoulders and neck. The intuitive meeting chair follows the body's natural movements to provide optimal support in every position without the need for adjustments. This means the occupant sits comfortably from the outset while making it easy to change sitting positions. With only a single lever for height adjustment, the chair is both user-friendly and compliant.

The unique Dynamic Lean® tilt function enables seamless back support tilting with no requirement for any settings. The function provides intuitive support for the small of the back when the occupant leans back, and this also encourages movement and variations in work posture.

Savo Invite's stylish, neat design exudes quality. It's available as a meeting chair and high chair, and both versions offer many design possibilities. Savo Invite is available in black, white or polished metal versions with or without armrests. The back comes in mesh as standard, but can also be covered in fabric or leather. The seat is available in fabric or leather. The chair is fitted with a swivel base and comes with castors or sliders. The high chair also has an optional foot ring or triangular footrest. Savo Invite suits all kinds of meetings in many different settings such as activity-based workplaces, offices and home offices.

Savo Invite is a sustainable chair with a recyclable layer-by-layer design that allows its components to be dismantled, replaced and repaired as necessary. Covered parts can also be replaced to change the fabric and appearance. Savo Invite is made using 93 per cent recyclables and renewables and incorporates 38 per cent recycled material. The chair also bears the Möbelfakta eco-label, which means it meets the requirements for quality, sustainability and social responsibility.

About Savo

Since its founding, Savo has pioneered the way modern work chairs look and function in Scandinavia. Chair production began in Norway back in 1945, but it was during the 1970s that Savo was established as a specialist in office seating. Savo drives the development of sustainable office chairs with the best user experience through innovative premium products with intuitive designs. Savo's motto is 'Pushing the Seating Experience' and it continues to challenge the standard for the office chairs of today and tomorrow.
